

Middle Aged Women

Women should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, shortness of breath, excessive nervousness, irritability, and the blues—which indicate the approach of the inevitable "Change" that comes to all women nearing middle age. We have published volumes of proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest aid women can have during this trying period.

Read About These Two Women:
 Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. Gordon, 22 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Chicago, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to the annoying symptoms I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—Mrs. F. A. Hanson, 1316 South Orchard Street, Urbana, Ill.

RADICAL BREAK IN SILENCE

Red Attack Upon Marching Ex-Yanks at Centralia Re-news Heated Discussion in Washington as to Remedies

BY DAVID LAWRENCE, (Special Correspondent of The News Scimitar.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Outbreaks in the state of Washington by the W. W. R. resulting in the death of four veterans on Armistice day have had the effect of breaking the silence of the nation as to the radical movement in America.

As usual there is a tendency to shift responsibility from one branch of the government to another. Senator Poinsett, of Washington, blaming the executive for leniency in enforcing the law, and the department of justice pointing out that congress was asked as early as last June for laws that would enable the government to reach anarchists—and no law has been done.

The "goal," if there must be one, is the uncertainty which prevails over the legal status of all legislation passed for the duration of the war and the fact that the peace treaty is not unratified in the senate. The espionage act, passed by congress after a weary struggle by the executive branch of the government, is sufficient to reach radicals who plotted the overthrow of our institutions. But it is an open secret that the espionage law is not being enforced and has not been virtually since the armistice. That law specifically named offenses committed by the intent and purpose of aiding "the enemy," while the United States was at war. But none of the activities of the radicals are now directed in favor of Germany or any country that might be technically construed as still a belligerent. They are directed against institutions of the United States alone. They are internal and not international in their particularities.

In Sedition Laws.

So the remedy must be sought in federal statutes previously on the books, namely, the sedition laws. Actual sedition—that is resistance to federal authority—is already covered in the statutes. Conspiracy for sedition, that is a plot in part of the two or more persons, to resist or attack federal authority—is also covered by existing laws. But there is nothing to bridge the hiatus between the two sets of statutes. Advocacy of sedition for instance on the part of an individual is not punishable but an individual attempt to stir up sedition when separated from an over act of sedition.

Thus individuals can go up to the point of inciting others, but the government must wait until the individual is in a position to commit an overt act. And the radicals have legal skill enough to take advantage of such loopholes. The offense of sedition is undefined.

Attorney-General Palmer appeared before the committee of congress as early as June of this year shortly after the bomb outrages and asked for legislation covering these points. But nothing has been done. Congress has been interested in other matters.

The senate has spent practically all its time on the peace treaty to the exclusion of business of a vital character. The legislators have claimed that the peace treaty was of paramount importance, but both sides will probably admit that much time has been spent in useless debate that might have been profitably spent in passing laws that would reach the radicals and anarchists who wish to overthrow the government itself.

Condemnation of the assault on the soldiers at Centralia, Wash., is heard on every side, yet the federal government is powerless to act in such circumstances. Conspiracy to kill marching veterans is a state offense punishable by the laws of the state of Washington.

Even if the federal government were aware in advance of the intention of the W. W. R. to wreak vengeance on the marchers, it could do no more than notify state authorities who are responsible for the exercise of police power in such circumstances. But there are things that federal government can do to prevent the growth of anarchistic movements and to reduce the number of radicals at large in the country. One is to enforce rigidly laws that congress may pass with respect to the advocacy of sedition.

When the attorney-general appeared before congress he was told that his request for a law on this point was too mild. Mr. Palmer pointed out that he did not favor some of the extreme proposals such as the penalizing of everybody who marched in a parade where a red flag suddenly appeared and similar statutes that gave room for abuse and the stirring up of much more discontent and radicalism than the radicals themselves could incite. He wanted the law between actual sedition and radicalism covered and believed that as a starter that would help his department. If he needed more law upon experience, he would ask for it.

But congress has granted the department of justice no additional law whatsoever. The situation stands today. Deportation, on the other hand, is only a partial remedy. It can be used only against aliens and just now there are many radicals and anarchists who are citizens of the United States.

There is no law to take citizenship away unless it can be proved that the citizenship itself was fraudulently obtained which is relatively speaking a rare occurrence. Citizens can appeal to the courts for protection under the constitutional rights of free speech. To make it a crime to advocate sedition would be a definition of constitutional rights of free speech in peace time similar to the definitions imposed during war time by the espionage act. The federal government is not so much interested in any new deportation law to cover citizens of the United States—they would be imprisoned under the new federal laws passed by congress.

But it would be a great advantage if the problem of deportation of aliens who had already been admitted to the United States and who have been living here for a long time were placed in the hands of the department of justice. At present the department of labor handles deportation questions on theory that an alien residing in the United States, who has not yet been admitted to citizenship is theoretically still an immigrant and as such subject to the jurisdiction of immigration division of the department of labor. But inasmuch as the department of justice has the funds and the staff to make investigations as well as prosecutions, a centralization of all deportation cases in the department of justice would prevent many of our citizens from escaping the clumsy interned department machinery.

The department of labor could retain jurisdiction over the admission of immigrants, but the behaviors of the latter after they have taken up residence in the United States, it has been suggested, should be watched, investigated and prosecuted by the law enforcement branch of the government—the department of justice.

PLUMB PLAN AUTHOR TO ADDRESS FARMERS

One of the principal speakers at the convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union, to be held at the Chamber of Commerce, Nov. 18 to 25, inclusive, will be Glenn E. Plumb, author of the famous, for infamous, according to the viewpoint, plan for government ownership and triplicate control of the railroads. Mr. Plumb, it is understood, will address the delegates to the farmers' convention with the object of winning their endorsement of his plan, which has been somewhat thrown into the shade by the steel and coal strikes.

Between 200 and 300 delegates, representing the agricultural regions of 27 states, are expected to assemble here at the convention. They will be provided over by Charles Safford, of Atlanta, Ga., president of the union.

A joint committee of the convention section and entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce, led by Honorable L. H. Hays and Dr. E. E. George, is making arrangements for the entertainment of the farmer delegates.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nervous Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is obtained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will so definitely develop as well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten, and hair, which grows with the bloom of perfect health. Miss Georgia Hamilton, who was once thin and frail, reporting her own experience, writes: "Bitro-phosphate has brought about a magic transformation with me. I gained 15 pounds and never before felt so well."

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

SHOOK WITH NERVOUSNESS

A Lady Was Flat on Her Back With Terrible Spells, But Her Husband Got Cardui,— And Now She Is Grateful.

McKinney, Texas.—Mrs. Mary Stephenson, of this place, states: "About a year and a half ago I was down in bed for six weeks, not able to sit up. I was flat on my back and had terrible spells. . . . Why, it looked like I would die. . . . At times I didn't know anything. . . . I would get nervous, I couldn't bear anyone to talk to me—I would just jerk and shake with nervousness. . . . across my back was so sore and ached me all the time. . . . I would get numb and feel so weak. . . . I said to my husband I knew Cardui was good and I believed I had best try it. . . . He got me a bottle of Cardui, and when I had only taken one-half bottle of Cardui I felt stronger. I took a half a dozen bottles altogether, then in two weeks after I began taking I was up in three I was doing my work. I praise Cardui for I believe it saved my life and I am grateful."

For over 40 years Cardui has been helping weak, sick women back to health and strength. Try it. adv.
